MAN SOUGHT FOR MURDER IS CAUGHT

Joe Seretsic, Said to Confess He Was Implicated in the Killing of Marko Plazanja At Mather, Is Being Held

FLED FROM SCENE OF CRIME

Seretsic Is Taken to County Seat And Was to Be Held There Until This Morning, When Greene County Minions Were to Take Him In Charge

Joe Seretsic, a miner, who is believed to have been implicated in the murder of one Marko Plazanja, which occurred at Mather, Greene county, on the morning of October 29, last, at the home of Pete Sekel, was placed under arrest at West Brownsville yesterday. It is said that the killing was the sequel to a drunken brawl.

Seretsic was taken to the county jail at Washington, and is being held there, but it is presumed he will be taken to the county jail at West Brownsville by Greene county minions this morning.

Pete Sekel, at whose home the killing occurred, and Seretsic disappeared immediately after the fight. They were sought by Greene county officers but no trace of them could be found although mining towns were watched carefully.

"That man is wanted for a murder in Greene county," Constable Byers, of West Brownsville, was informed yesterday by a resident of that place and he pointed out Seretsic. Constable Evers notified Chief of County Detectives William B. Dinsmore of the statement made by the man, whose name is not known. Greene county officers were communicated with and the facts regarding the killing at Mather secured.

County Detectives B. M. Laird and D. W. Greigh were sent to West Brownsville at once and Seretsic was taken into custody.

Seretsic is said to have confessed to his part in the fight but he said it was a brawl and that he struck the blow which killed Plazanja in self-defense. He claims if he had not done so that he would have met with bodily harm himself.

Officers Named At The Banquet Of the Firemen

The annual banquet and business meeting of the Bentleyville fire department was held Monday night. The banquet was of an elaborate nature, punctuated by speeches made by councilmen of the town, and prominent citizens of the town and community.

The newly elected officers for the ensuing year were as follows: President, George Beck; vice president, Rev. A. T. Carr; secretary, C. R. McClane; treasurer, Ross Richardson; fire chief, Paul Christina; first assistant fire chief, H. W. Dague; second assistant fire chief, F. Kosloski; captain, Mike Dimeo; first lieutenant, Charles Richardson; and second lieutenant, Boyd Martin.

After the business meeting, the toastmaster, the Rev. A. T. Carr, introduced a number of speakers, each one of whom was complimentary in epithets as relates to the fire fighters. They were commended by every speaker for their unselfish devotion to the kindred interests of the town and the adjacent community.

Harrisburg, Jan. 16.—(United Press).—A campaign that will include community and industrial activity was launched here today at the thirty-second annual convention of the Pennsylvania Tuberculosis Society.

Eradication of tuberculosis among the workers was to be considered at the wind-up session of the two-day meeting tonight in a round table discussion at which Secretary of Labor and Industry Royal Meeker will preside.

Secretary of Health Charles H. Miner spoke last night on the importance of community activity in the education of the home on the best preventive measures to take against tuberculosis.

A thorough canvass of every community for cases was recommended as part of the 1924 program by Miss Jessamine S. Whitney, statistician for the National Association, at the session today.

The survey consists of visits to hospitals, homes, charitable institutions and physicians.

"It is safe to say that for every case reported five visits are necessary to get complete and accurate information," declared Miss Whitney, in outlining plans for the campaign.

Dr. L. I. Dublin, life insurance statistician, attributed the decline in the tuberculosis rate for the last two decades to the organized campaign against tuberculosis.

County health departments were recommended in the address of Dr. W. F. Draper, assistant surgeon general of the United States, and Dr. Charles H. Keene, director of the bureau of health education, emphasized the importance of the normal school as the place to plant the seed of health education.

James A. Tobey, administrative secretary of the National Health Council, was to discuss the national health examination campaign tonight.

Dry or Wet Man Wants His Drink

Philadelphia, Jan. 16.—(United Press).—"Prohibition has little effect on the average working man of America, for he is a high-class citizen willing to work for care of his family whether there are dry laws or not." Samuel M. Vaulchain, who is president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, as an employer of labor, made this statement in an interview today, before the fourth anniversary meeting of prohibition in the United States.

"But the working man likes something to tickle his palate just like people with more money, and if he cannot stimulate it by beverages, he will make it at home," he said.

He also stated that last year more grapes were picked to be turned into wine than ever before in the history of the country.

Pennsylvania Owns Over A Million Acres Of Forests In 29 Counties

Harrisburg, Jan. 16.—(United Press).—Beginning in 1898 with acquisition of 17,010 acres of forest land in the state, Pennsylvania is now the sole proprietor of 1,131,277 acres of forests located in 29 counties of the state, it was announced today by the Department of Forests and Waters.

The average price paid for the forest land during these 26 years was $2.26 per acre, according to the announcement.

Approximately 3,500,000 additional acres will be acquired if the $25,000,000 bond issue is approved, according to a statement of Secretary R. Y. Stuart. The bond issue does not come before the voters until 1925, after the legislature has given it the required second endorsement.

Most of the acreage now owned by the state, Cameron according to figures announced today, is in Potter, Clinton and Lycoming counties. There are 154,735 acres of forest land in Potter county, where the largest holdings are found, and only 11 acres in Butler county, where the smallest acreage in any one county is located.

A UNIFIED DRY SYSTEM FOR STATE

Philadelphia, Jan. 16.—(United Press).—Unified prohibition enforcement system for Pennsylvania with Major William G. Murdock, state director, in complete charge, will be put into effect shortly, it was reported today.

R. B. Sams, divisional chief, said today he "had his hat in his hand" and that he expected to be transferred at a moment's notice.

The reported dry shake up is in accordance with the Pepper-Pinchot plan to have prohibition enforcement divisions in charge of enforcement and a state director in charge of premissive work leads to misunderstandings and consequently poor enforcement, it is said.

Rosita Forbes, Who Has Traversed the Jungles of Africa And Desert of Sahara Can Tell Us, But Not Love

SHE DON'T BELIEVE IN IT

Lives Only to Explore — The Lady Has Little of the Romantic—Sheik Is a Fable — For the Most Part Dirt—Is Decidedly Feminine

New York, Jan. 16.—(United Press).—American heiresses may marry Austrian counts, and others pine for ardent sheiks, but according to Rosita Forbes—they don't know the half of it.

Rosita, lithe, sparkling, bobbed-haired British woman explorer, knows. She has slept in the desert under a sand-whipped sky of tenting with many a real sheik snoring unconcernedly alongside. She has been in places in Arabia and Northern Africa where no other white person has ever penetrated. She has met men on her travels who have captured her imagination, but never by their love-making.

Miss Forbes professes not to believe in love; it interferes with exploration, and she lives only to explore. She doesn't even consider men good companions on a hard journey to distant lands—"they eat too much," she explained.

Here for a series of lectures on her travels in the Sahara, Rosita Forbes declares herself exhausted by the rigors of New York's hospitality, and subways—and pines a little for a lonesome water hole, somewhere in the Sahara, with a couple of wild lions or a mad buffalo for diversion.

The first thing this attractive explorer-lecturer does to Americans is to amaze them by her superficial femininity. One would rather expect a woman who has braved seven deserts and the mountain fastnesses where untamed bandits hold sway to be solid and substantial of appearance and demeanor.

Rosita is bird-like; if it weren't for her slender height, men would call her "cute"; long slender legs in silken hose, fashionable buttoned skirt, red lips set in a schoolgirl complexion, the hardships of the desert and constant disguises have not blemished, such is something of Miss Forbes.

After disposing of the Sheik fable, a real sheik is for the most part

THE DEPARTMENT IS EXAMINING DOCKETS

Harrisburg, Jan. 8.—The State Highway Department has received a check from the city of Allentown in the sum of $2,633, covering an audit recently made of the police docket in that city for the period from Jan. 1, 1920, to June 1, 1923, the amount representing fines for violations of the automobile laws and erroneously deposited in the city treasury.

The State Highway department is conducting examinations of police dockets in various cities of the state. Under section 28 of the act of June 14, 1923, "no city borough, incorporated town, township, or county, shall hereafter adopt, maintain, or enforce any rule, regulation, or ordinance, regulating the speed, equipment, use, or operation of motor vehicles, other than city or borough ordinances regulating the stopping and parking of vehicles, or the establishment of zones in which vehicles may park at night without lights, as provided in section twenty of this act, the use of certain streets as one-way streets, or regulating the kind and weight of traffic on certain streets and in public parks, or the establishment of safety zones: Provided, however, That no such special regulation shall be effective unless notice of the same is posted conspicuously, by the municipality making the same, at points where any highway affected thereby joins other highways, and no regulation shall be valid which excludes such vehicles from any state highway or from any main highway leading from one municipality to another."

Provided, That any city may regulate the transportation by motor vehicles of passengers for pay within the limits of such city or from points in the city to points beyond the city limits and make and enforce regulations for the operation of such vehicles, not inconsistent with this act, and designated certain streets in which such vehicles may be operated.

It may also be limited to 15 miles per hour.

The city of Pittsburgh has been the first of the cities making use of the Automobile Traffic Act of 1923.

PRESS THINK HIS SPEECH MASTERFUL

London, Jan. 9.—(United Press)—Ramsay MacDonald has spoken out the language of a forthright labor government, and, for the moment at least, England finds itself considerably less frightened.

The press generally congratulated MacDonald on the address he delivered last night to a gathering which jammed Royal Albert Hall to the roof in celebration of labor's electoral victory. As forecast by the United Press, MacDonald set forth as labor's first and principal objective, when it assumes control of the government soon, a better understanding with France, and the world as a whole, recognition of Russia and support of the league of Nations.

Also as previously predicted in these dispatches, MacDonald revealed his intention of avoiding, as premier, any laborite agitation for extreme legislation.

It was this last phase of his program that perhaps brought the open manifestations of relief and, in many instances, of joy, among the British.

Donald. The Times for example, says the future premier acquainted himself with considerable ability. It is not easy to say, the newspaper explains, to be rhetorical enough to please all the laborite followers without being inflammatory, or moderate enough to avoid frightening the timid.

The morning Post says MacDonald's new world compares favorably with Lloyd George's other past twenty years.

There are of course jeers and sneers from MacDonald's opponents who hail his speech as "soothing syrup," "soft-pedaling," and the like.

Before today's session of parliament reconvened to hear the lord chancellor read the king's approval of the election of Speaker Whitely, MacDonald presided over a meeting of the parliamentary laborites in the House of Commons.

Interest centered for the time being in this new political power in the country, rather than in the perfunctory routine of the parliamentary session.

Leading business men joined with the press in asking for calmness and patience in installing labor upon England's legislative throne.

Charles Furch Crisp, prominent banker and an international financier, made it clear to the United Press correspondent that "the city" was poised to give Ramsay MacDonald a fair chance "hystreries of portions of the press to the contrary notwithstanding."

STABILITY FOR STEEL INDUSTRY

Harrisburg, Jan. 9.—(United Press)—With the steel industry recovered from its slump of the past few months conditions in many manufacturing lines were expected to reflect a steady tone of business stability for 1924, according to employment reports from every section of the state announced today by the Department of Labor and Industry.

Demand for common labor which fell off considerably, threatening unemployment for the winter, has picked up with the result that a crisis has been averted in this field.

There are 2,600 idle in Erie unable to secure work due to the let-up in transportation since the closing of lake traffic. These men are unsuited for other lines of work, it was said.

Some of the reports on metal industries for the present period are as follows:

Erie—Present indications are that business will increase in the New Year. This seems especially true of foundries, which are planning to start up part of their furnaces.

Harrisburg—Iron and steel mills have recovered somewhat from the slump which they have been passing through.

Johnstown—The steel plants and metal industries of this district show slackness in common labor. We anticipate a brighter new year.

Pittsburgh—Common labor market has turned the corner. Surplus of unemployed not unusually large. In

CURE FOR HABIT SPASMS PROPOSED

Harrisburg, Jan. 8.—(United Press)—Cure for habit spasms, such as St. Vitus' dance, in regularity of living was proposed in the health talk of the State Department of Health today by Dr. John Donnelly, chief of the division of tuberculosis.

"A little child often becomes the victim of certain irregular and apparently involuntary movements of the different parts of the body and it needs careful study, and sometimes in addition, the skill of the physician, to determine whether these movements are pure habit spasms or St. Vitus' dance," said Dr. Donnelly.

"Certainly a child having twitches of various groups of muscles, elevation of eye-brows, frowning, drawing one angle of the mouth to one side, or who is fidgety, nods the head, or shrugs the shoulders, all without apparent cause, needs to be placed under medical observation.

"Scrupulous care as to sleep and exercise, avoidance of fatigue and over-excitement, plus the assurance that the breathing passages are entirely free from obstruction, together with medical supervision, will result in cure."

Studebaker Light-Six
Touring Car

We Want to Talk to Every Prospect Who Plans to Pay More Than $500 for a Car

We want to tell you something about the Studebaker Light-Six Touring Car. Want you to examine it—and to drive it.

Step in and let us prove what a vast difference there is between the Light-Six and other cars at about the same price—or between the Light-Six and cars of other makes costing several hundred dollars more.

To be able to buy a Six, practically free from vibration, for less than $1,000 is an opportunity not duplicated anywhere in the world. Elimination of vibration adds immeasurably to the life of the motor. It is one of the reasons for the universal high resale value of the Light-Six.

The Touring Car body is all-steel—even to its framework. Seat cushions—of genuine leather—are ten inches deep and are placed at the most restful angle.

The one-piece windshield is handsome and practical because it gives unobstructed view of the road ahead and is rain-proof. The quick-action cowl ventilator and the parking lights are but indications of the quality and completeness of the appointments.

No other make of car ever built, by anyone, at any price, represents so great a dollar-for-dollar value as the Light-Six Touring Car. The savings resulting from large volume, complete manufacture and the fact that Studebaker's overhead is shared by three distinct models make possible its low price and high value.

The Light-Six upholds Studebaker's 72-year reputation for honest value.

CONGRESSIONAL ENCROACHMENT.

While Europe, apart from Great Britain, tends toward government by dictators, the present trend in the United States is toward the limitation of the powers of any single official even though he be the President. Without asking for the assent of Parliament, Premier Mussolini has just instructed the King of Italy to issue a decree of prorogation, to take effect after January 1, with elections to follow at Mussolini's convenience. In the United States, on the other hand, the Chief Executive seems to be losing his constitutional right to negotiate treaties with reasonable expectation of their ratification as in the past. Mr. Wickersham, former Attorney General in the Taft Cabinet has just called attention to the encroachment of the Senate upon the prerogatives of the President, pointing out that the Senate now assumes to control the negotiations as well as the ratification of treaties "in defiance of the practice and principles of a century of constitutional government," and that as a result of this "unconstitutional invasion of Executive powers, the treaty-making power of this country is so complicated as to be almost unworkable."

Progress can now be made in international relations, says Mr. Wickersham, "only by the exercise of great powers of conciliation or of domination by the President, or by awakening and directing upon the Senate a vigorous public opinion." The events of recent years show this to be true. Not only has the Senate encroached upon the President's treaty-making prerogatives, but there has been a similar invasion of Executive power by the House in asserting a right to vote money to put a treaty into force or not at its own discretion. Though all this may be described as an extension of the democratic principle, it is unquestionably a departure from both precedent and constitutional provision.

LEADERS IN AVIATION.

American aviators are distinguished for speed and endurance records, made chiefly by army and navy fliers with the best machines obtainable, but except for our matchless mail service from coast to coast, America is behind in commercial or civil aviation. It is interesting to take note of the achievements in the latter direction in Great Britain, where, not without reason, it is expected that flying will prove hardly less essential to commerce than surface shipping. In the year ending September 30 the number of passengers carried by airplane from Croyden to the Continent was 17,542, an airplane leaving Croyden every hour of a twelve-hour day during the twelve months. Freight traffic also is steadily increasing. It is stated that on the London-Cologne route more parcels are offered than can be carried, and that one day recently thirty motorcycles and seven tons of tobacco were awaiting shipment at the British terminus.

The French are distinguished in both commercial and record-making aviation. According to report, Sadi-Lecapote expects to cross the Atlantic in ten hours when his new seaplane is ready. His schedule includes Paris to Marseilles in two hours and Paris to Algiers in four hours. An attempted quick trip across Atlantic is only to be expected of a man who holds the record with a sky climb of 35,365 feet and whose deeds of daring in general have made his name a household word in his native France. European aviation has the advantage of being stimulated by government subsidies, while in this country nothing substantial to support the industry has as yet been done by Congress. Meanwhile England is planning fifty-two squadrons as a defense against Continental nations.

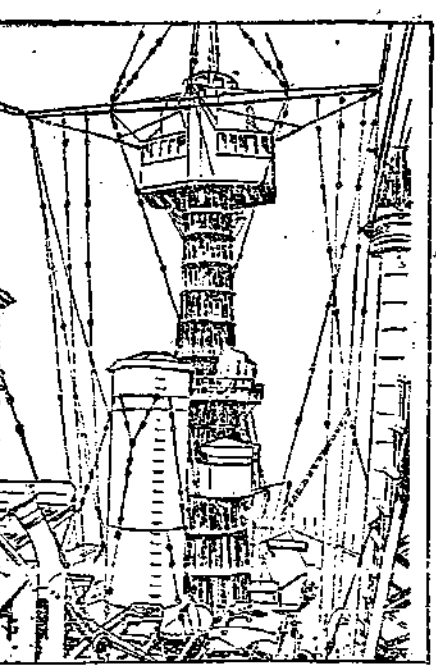

DISTINGUISHED JEWS.

President Coolidge's reference to the "splendid estate of leadership, spirituality and service" which the Jews had given to the world "for the common advantage" at the time of the Jewish New Year some weeks ago, has led to the interesting enumeration of the distinguished and high-placed Jews of the world. The twelve greatest of these, according to a poll in the New York Jewish Tribune, include a celebrated physicist, chemist, lawyer, Supreme Court Justice, a member of India's cabinet, a poet, a rabbi, a philosopher, and a playwright as follows: Albert Einstein, (Germany); Chaim Weizmann (England); Isaac Zangwill (England); Bernard Shaw (England); Sigmund Freud (Austria); Max Planck (Germany); Otto von Guericke (Germany); Heinrich Heine (Germany); Franz Kafka (Czechoslovakia); S. Y. Agnon (Poland); and Eliezer Greenwald (Poland).

Insulators on Warship Like Strings of Beads

Every rope and stay of the "Colorado," Uncle Sam's new electrically driven warship, is thoroughly insulated, the knobs giving it the appearance of being decorated with strings of large beads. Because of the great amount of current generated aboard the vessel and also because the radio is so necessary for its guidance, no electrical leakages can be permitted anywhere aboard. According to navy officials, the craft is one of the best insulated ships afloat.

Cities Half Century Hence to be "Built in Air"

Moving the calendar ahead fifty years, some noted experts see American cities with towering skyscrapers beside which even the tallest and most beautiful buildings of today will seem very ordinary. Even the small towns will have structures as large as those now considered huge. Street traffic will have been almost eliminated, workers will travel in subways, dirigibles, or on elevated roads at high speed. The telephone will have added improvements. Radio sets will be essential in every office and home. Houses will be heated by electricity in a few minutes, and little coal will be used in either homes or office buildings. The camera will have been discarded for pocket motion-picture outfits, and "movies" in the theaters will have been given speech. College students will report their lessons by wireless, and ministers will broadcast their sermons.

A Ski Toboggan

The exhilarating sport of sliding down the snow crust has much to commend it. It also has its dangers, as the crust softens toward spring, and a heavy sled is liable to break through, catapulting its passengers headlong into the frozen snow, which breaks up and presents jagged cutting edges capable of inflicting serious injury.

Phone Receiver Held to Ear by Bracket; Frees Hands

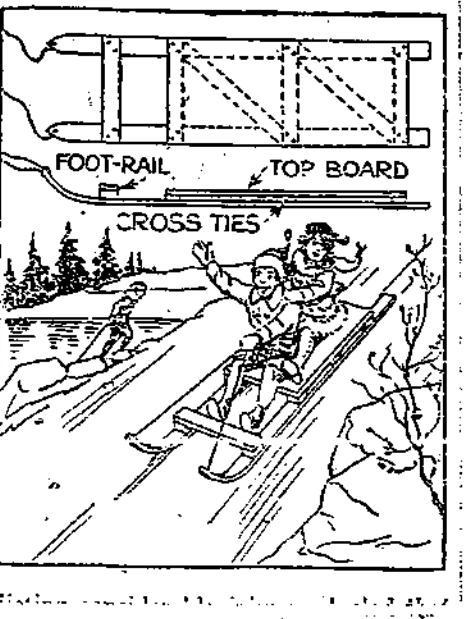

Free use of both hands is permitted a person using a telephone equipped with a folding steel arm recently invented, that holds the receiver to the ear. Clamped to the stand, it is easily adjusted to any position desired. With a single movement the arm can be raised or lowered to signal the operator. To disconnect, the holder is folded back. Its weight is counterbalanced by a plate fitted under the telephone.

Cleaning an Oil-Soaked Belt

To clean an oil-soaked belt, coil the belt loosely in a box or tub and fill the box with whitening, being sure to get the whitening between the surfaces for the entire length. Let it remain thus overnight, and the whitening will absorb the oil and leave the belt clean.

UNCLE HANK

(England), Nathan Straus (U. S.), George Brandes (Denmark), Chaim N. Pichik (Russia), Stephen S. Wise (U. S.), Henri Bergson (France), Arthur Schnitzler (Austria). It is interesting to note that four of these twelve are Americans and three Englishmen, more than half of them having developed in the free atmosphere of English-speaking countries. American and English nationality are noticeable also in the list of five prominent Jews, which, omitting the first twelve mentioned above, include David Belasco, Samuel Compers, Oscar Straus, Samuel Untermyer, Julius Rosenwald, Adolph S. Ochs, Cyrus Adler, Baron Rothschild, Sigmund Freud, Maximilian Harden and Leon Trotsky. It will be observed that the list represents statesmanship, philosophy, the law, literature, the drama, labor and revolution as well as banking.

"COME OUT AND MARRY US."

Australia and New Zealand's call to young women of Great Britain to "come out and marry us," as newspaper editors in that far region worded the invitation years ago, would still appear to be insistent, for, according to a London dispatch, forty girls who have just left England for New Zealand, after being granted free passage and $10 pocket money, were first required to promise that for a year they would refuse all offers of marriage. The explanation given for this extraordinary requirement is that so many men in New Zealand are in need of wives that British eligibles are "snapped up" almost as soon as they land, and long before they have been given a quid pro quo, in the shape of domestic service, for the passage money they have received from the Government.

One would think the British government would be eager to take advantage of such an opportunity to populate and build up the far colonies instead of imposing such restrictions in the interests of the wealthier colonials who are short of domestic servants. That such an opportunity should be made the most of is clearly indicated by the fact that emigration to the colonies is now only about half what it was in pre-war years despite heavy appropriations to encourage emigration and the fact that England now faces her fourth winter with a million and a half unemployed. Few young Britons are willing either to go out to the colonies or to brave the rude conditions in the new African territories. The old pioneer spirit seems to have waned and the lure of the great towns to have strengthened. While government inducements have carried only 200,000 to the colonies this year, 80,000 Britons have come to the cities of the United States.

TALK ABOUT LUCK.

A man who believes in the old saying, "See a pin and pick it up, and all that day you'll have good luck," saw a pin in front of the postoffice the other day. Bending down to get it, his hat tumbled off and rolled into the gutter, his eye-glasses fell and broke on the pavement, his suspenders gave way behind, he burst the buttonhole on the back of his shirt collar, and he all but lost his new front teeth. He got the pin.

When some wealthy people brag that they have the best of everything they are not talking about managers.

Keep out of trouble. No matter what the court may decide, there is a large jury on the outside that will believe the charges.

The boy stood on the burning deck, And he cursed with might and main. He had a right to, for, by heck, He was paroled again.

CAN YOU WHISTLE THIS?

Mr. Ernest Newman regards The Rosary as the world's worst song. This is a nasty blow for the authors.

If you will work hard and save your money, you can retire after a while and be bored to death.

History records not a single instance of a man getting rich waiting for the whistle to blow.

Let the customer think he's buying, don't try to sell him. That's the way the women work during courtship, the salesmanship period of their lives.

Havana's Race Courses, Golf Links, Casino and Markets Bid Winter-Weary Americans Visit Sun-Kissed Seas

Havana holds a beckoning finger from her twice-a-year port, New York, for two cruises on January and February 20th each. The second day out from New York, furs and heavy wraps are doffed. Another day, and everybody is in white. Deck sports are going forward and the big canvas bathing pool is erected on deck. By this time every one knows everybody else and little parties of congenial souls enter eagerly into that most pleasant phase of travel—shipboard intimacy. These southern cruises are sort of travel sandwiches made up of stretches of voyaging on water and interludes of land excursions. The first landing is made at Havanna, where more than a day is devoted to intriguing sight-seeing and fascinating shopping. A stop at the Island of Jamaica, allows a visit to the interesting town of Kingston, besides many thousands of the interesting town of Kingston, of Canadian troops. This ship sails on, before heading for that 26th-century marvel, the Panama Canal, where a good idea of Colon is obtained during a sixteen hour stop. Then comes the passage of that wonderful man-made waterway with the City of Panama at its southern end. Yes, that's correct, for the canal runs almost due north and south, not east and west as popularly supposed. Stops at strange places—Columbia and Curacao—precede the setting of foot on South American soil at La Guayra in Venezuela, where the tourists are entertained by a most thrilling mountain-railway ride. Trinidad, Barbadoes and Martinique all offer individual and unusual attractions, so too, St. Thomas and Porto Rico. These are all palm-fringed isles, but each has its own peculiar charms and beauty. The final stop is alternative, Bahamas one trip, Bermuda, the next.

GOOD TIMES MARRIAGE KEY

Pittsburgh, Jan. 9. (United Press)—Charles W. Hendrickson, marriage license clerk for 12 years, says there is nothing in leap year. He does not expect an increase in marriages in 1924 he says.

"Good times is the real key to marriages," Hendrickson said. "You can trace the condition of the country by the number of marriage licenses issued."

"For instance in 1915, a poor year, the total dropped a thousand. Then it rose in 1916 and 1917 when we were making war money. In 1918 and 1919 when we began to feel the effects of war with thousands in the camps and overseas, the licenses dropped four thousand."

"And then they rose steadily again in 1920, which is the high peak so far. In this year 23,713 licenses were issued, slightly more than in 1923. The year 1921, having a business depression, was a low point. In 1922 the country recovered somewhat and gained 1,000."

So it all depends on business, according to Hendrickson. While Leap

Year gives women the privileges of disposing and also of disposing, Hendrickson says very few people take advantage of it, and in the final analysis prosperity in 1924 will determine the number of marriage.

GUARDSMEN TO PRESERVE ORDER

Marion, Ill., Jan. 9.—(United Press).—Three companies of National Guardsmen were bivouaced in Williamson county, scene of the "Herrin massacre," to prevent a possible outbreak of fighting between moonshiners, dry agents, and the Ku Klux Klan and an anti-Klan organization, "the Knights of the Flaming Circle."

The guardsmen arrived last night on orders of Gov. Len Small and Adjutant General Charles Black.

General Black arrived early today after an all-night journey from Springfield. He was deciding what steps to take to quiet the tense situation which climaxed yesterday when Sheriff George Calligan from a sick bed penned a telegram to Governor Small declaring the situation had approached the riot stage and was out of his control.

The guardsmen, from surrounding towns of Mount Vernon, Salem and Cairo, under the command of Major W. P. Greney, arrived silently, with fixed bayonets, marched through the streets past hundreds of men and women just as silent, and unrolled the beds in the big court room on the second floor.

They are the first troops ever called out as the result of efforts to enforce the prohibition law in the United States.

The Salem company was sent at once to Herrin, close to the Lester strip where 25 men were killed in the battle between guards and striking miners in July, 1922. A large element of foreigners there has caused the forces attempting to enforce prohibition to center attention on this mining town, known as the hot bed of any trouble that may start in the coal mining district.

Sheriff Calligan today gave the United Press his reasons for calling out the troops.

1.—Three soft drink saloons out of the scores raided by flying squadrons of deputies federalized by federal prohibition agents, together with posses of citizens who claimed they were members of the Ku Klux Klan, have been burned in the past week.

2.—S. Glenn Young, leading the dry raiding parties, after having been deputized by federal agents, Tuesday night, arrested several members of the Herrin police force and commanded one of them, Al Richardson, to turn in his star and resign at once.

3.—Young's 12 companions in leading the raids yesterday brought to the Williamson county court house where Young was being tried on a charge of assault, two Browning machine guns, which they kept by the wall of the room during the trial.

Calligan also told of charges that the raiders had beaten women and children and committed other atrocities.

Young last night was acquitted by a jury of five in Justice court of the assault charge against Paul Corder, whom he knocked down Saturday night after an argument over the raids.

CONSTABLE OF WIRETON

A Jordan sedan car owned by Constable Joseph Mochnally of Wireton, was stolen last night and shortly after noon today was discovered on the Library hill, completely destroyed by fire. Leaving the machine at the Eleventh street gate, while he entered the Pittsburgh Steel mill, Mochnally did not miss his car immediately. Even when he returned to the place where he had left the car and found it missing, he was not alarmed, for he thought that the Mochnallys

In Society's Realm

The marriage of Miss Lethia M. Isabel daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Isabel of 831 Crest avenue, and William T. J. Allsopp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Allsopp of Washington avenue, was solemnized last evening at 7:30 o'clock in the parsonage of St. Jerome's Catholic church, by Rev. William D. Fries. The bride was prettily gowned in pale blue tulle with steel bead trimming, and she wore a corsage of roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Fay Allsopp, sister of the groom, was maid of honor, wearing a gown of orchid tulle. She wore a corsage of pink roses. G. Fred Randon acted as best man. A reception and dinner followed the ceremony with the members of the immediate families present. Mr. and Mrs. Allsopp will make their home with the bride's parents, at 831 Crest avenue.

WOMEN VOTERS IN A MEETING TODAY

Harrisburg, Jan. 9. (United Press). A meeting of the State Board of the Pennsylvania League of Women Voters was held here today to plan for a number of educational events in connection with the program of the league.

lice had taken it to use in a hurried call, as had previously occurred. However, upon inquiry, he came to the hands of thieves, and all night efforts failed to locate its whereabouts. The car was found shortly after the noon hour, a total loss. It is thought that in a hurry to get to Pittsburgh, the car caught fire, and the thieves abandoned it. The machine was partially covered by insurance.

"Of course not," you answer. Nor would you allow any clerk or employee to do so.

Yet—around your home, and your place of business, probably, there are papers and securities, such as bonds, mortgages, stocks, certificates, that are worth more to you than a whole stack of $50 bills.

CHARLEROI FIREMEN ENTERTAIN LAVISHLY

Interests are safeguarded with such an efficient fire department.

During the course of the banquet, the concourse joined in the rendition of popular airs, and even those who were of the opinion that "they can't sing" kept time with the orchestral music, and the results were pleasing, if not always wholly "in note." A further pleasing feature of the selection of the orchestra, was the choice of its selections and the rendition toward the close of a chorus number by the members which was particularly beautiful and melodious.

The most impressive feature of the occasion, and in a measure the most felicitous, was the presentation, after being introduced by Mr. Hill, of the gift—a fireman's memento by Jacob Wise, to the department Mr. Wise, in his younger days, was a member of a Pittsburgh Volunteer Fire department, and know the vicissitudes and the dangers which accrue to a volunteer fire department membership. He was particularly complimentary to the local department and tendered the members of the badge insignia in appropriate and well worded phraseology. The gift was accepted in behalf of the department by Chief Henry M. Lowmister.

At the conclusion of the speaking, the invited guests of the firemen were asked to repair to the Municipal building, where John McFeeley, the champion in his class, and Mr. Cutsy had an argument, with McFeeley still retaining the laurels which he has won on many a "sawdust" night.

The banquet given by the Charleroi Fire Department in the month of January, 1924, will go down in the annals of the history of Charleroi borough as one of the most pleasant and highly successful social and fraternal affairs ever recorded on the fair pages of Charleroi's history. Firemen, and their valiant, self-sacrificing efforts in behalf of a community that appreciates them. As Toastmaster Hill appropriately said: "The citizens of Charleroi retire at night, assured that their public and private

DRIVE ON TO CLEAN UP PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, Jan. 9.—(United Press)—"I am greatly encouraged by the start we've made Brig. General Smedley D. Butler, Philadelphia's new director of public safety, told the United Press today, after surveying reports from police districts on the results of the first day and night of the sensational drive to clean up the city.

Nor was the general's information confined to reports, for at an early hour of the morning he was speeding through murky streets of Philadelphia's tangle, peering into shuttered houses of ill-repute, barred against his coming, and taking personal supervision of the night's assault of law and order against the city's crime.

With the coming of day, as the city stirred and tumbled to wakefulness, first fruits of the gaunt, hawk-nosed marine general's great experiment—a clean-up removed from politics and reformers and put in the hands of the police themselves, with a free rein, were apparent.

Philadelphia's tenderloin, as those shady sections lying within the sixth and eighth precincts are defined, was like a deserted village.

Saunter doors were padlocked, houses from whose doorsteps less virtuous of the city's sisterhood were wont to flaunt their charms showed no signs of life if there was any within. Wooden shutters covered many of the windows along the less reputable byways; while on the police blotters were records of the first night's raid. Twenty tenderloin "speakeasies" padlocked; ten arrests in the notorious efforts in behalf of a community that appreciates them. As Toastmaster Hill appropriately said: "The citizens of Charleroi retire at night, assured that their public and private

BAPTIST SOCIETY HOLDS MEETING

The Pastor's Aid society of the First Baptist church held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. J. R. Crouch, Meadow avenue, last evening, with a record attendance of members present. The society is growing in membership each month and is doing very fine work. Thirty guests were present. The meeting was opened with devotional exercises, led by Miss Clara Cooper, after which the business of the evening was taken up. After the business session, the remainder of the evening was spent in games and sewing. A delightful program was rendered, the outstanding feature being a violin solo by Ralph Rosomme, which was well rendered and appreciated by all those present. The evening was brought to a close with a dainty luncheon, served by the hostesses, Mrs. J. R. Crouch, Mrs. Calvin Higgins, and Miss Iva Higgins, assisted by Mrs. A. V. Poundstone. During the business session, it was decided to hold the next meeting February 5, in the basement of the First Baptist church, with Mrs. Edwin Davis and Mrs. Harriette as hostesses.

The Council of Jewish Women of the Monongahela valley held its regular monthly meeting in the Eagles parlors last evening, with a splendid attendance. Plans were formulated for the President's Day reception, to be held in honor of the president, Mrs. Harry Lebowitz, of Monessen, on Friday, February 15, in the Elks parlors. Friends of members are welcome to attend. Those who wish to make reservation will communicate with the program committee, Mrs. Nathan Greenberg of Charleroi, being in charge. Mrs. O. Malakoff, of North Charleroi, who is in charge of the finance committee, announced that a card party for the benefit of the treasury will be given on Tuesday, January 22, at the Eagles club. Every effort is being made to make this the most successful affair ever held and already eight prizes have been donated by the members; also many cakes have been promised. Tea will be poured for all attendants.

The members are putting forth great endeavor to surpass all their former efforts along the lines of charity work. They have sent in their large donation for the home of the aged in Pittsburgh, and now desire to refurbish part of the babies' home in Pittsburgh. Members are very enthusiastic over the idea of refurbishing the home and have unanimously pledged themselves to aid.

NEW YORK OWES

IT TO RICKARD

Washington, Jan. 16. — (United Press).—If New Yorkers feel like hanging a medal on someone for getting the 1924 Democratic convention for that city, they might as well pin it on Tex Rickard when he gets there tonight.

Rickard it was who flapped a towel at the waning spirit of the New York delegation yesterday noon, between the morning and afternoon "rounds" of the Democratic National committee, when selection of the convention city hung in the balance—with San Francisco on the heavy side.

Largely because of Rickard's efforts, the convention will be held in Madison Square Garden. Included in New York's winning offer was the cost of repairing the Garden to make it suitable for the convention.

The New York delegation had about given up hope. All offers were in the hands of Clark Howell's sub-committee, and San Francisco's $200,000 offer looked too big to overcome with an outlay of only $150,000, Democratic committee finances what they were.

WOODS PRESENTS PLAN

FOR THE RELIEF OF TRAFFIC CONGESTION

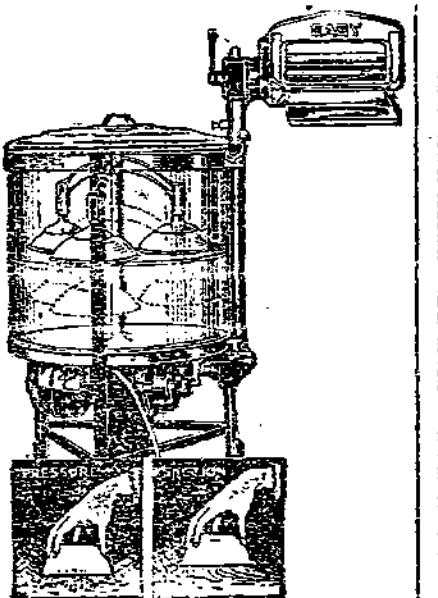

Pittsburgh, Jan. 16. — (United Press).—In order to relieve Pittsburgh's multitudinous traffic problems, a thousand and one suggestions have been offered by local citizens, most of which would mean the total demolition of Pittsburgh and subsequent reconstruction.

One idea worth mentioning is that of Edward A. Woods, civic expert, who proposed that sub-basements be built under office buildings and other buildings located in Pittsburgh's triangle.

Woods says there is no reason for any man refusing to park his car within a building, which at the same time would provide insurance against weather and theft.

Some Men Guess--And Trust to Luck

It's funny how a man who knows his particular line—making goods or selling them, farming, building, a profession or some other specialty—is sometimes so ready to invest his money in securities about which he knows nothing!

He's willing to guess, and trust to luck! And—oftentimes all he gets is a lot of nicely engraved paper—worthless!

When you are seeking investments, this bank's specialists are at your service. There'll be no guessing—every bond we offer is carefully investigated before we approve it.

PARIS FLOOD SHUTS TRAFFIC AND ALARMS CITY

Again history repeats itself. Paris is once more filled with the angry waters of the Seine River. All the city is alarmed, the railway stations are shut and traffic is at a standstill while the water continues to rise. In the suburbs of the French capital small boats are being used, and there is reason to believe that the flood will rise above the high mark of 1920. The damage is estimated in millions of francs.

"THIS FREEDOM"

Fay Compton and Clive Brook in "This Freedom", a picturization of the novel by A. S. M. Hutchinson author of "If Winter Comes". The story deals with a woman who devotes her life to a career. Her children, unintentionally neglected, lose "mother love" and in turn become wealthy waifs. Tragedy strikes them all and the mother finally realizes at what a price she bought "this freedom."

Mario Korbel, celebrated Bohemian-American sculptor, is shown at work on a creation in his New York studio, titled "The Three Graces", which the famous Duncan sisters, Margo, Anna and Lisa are SOUND MENDED YOUTH.

Politicians who regard the proposition of this country's association with the League of Nations as "a closed incident" and expect to keep it so may find cause for uncertainty as to the future in recent utterances of a great gathering of young people. The 7,400 at the quadrennial convention of students at Indianapolis, representing groups all over the United States, said to aggregate a million young men, voted overwhelmingly for America's participation in the League of Nations and entrance into the International Court established by the League. In a discussion of the question as to whether the world can avoid war under present conditions, a small minority of this convention of students expressed the view that the best means of prevention was to be found in complete military preparedness. Another small minority favored a resolution "not to sanction or participate in any future wars."

But the most notable utterance, said to represent "some 6,000" out of the whole 7,400, reads as follows: "We believe that war is un-Christian and that the League of Nations is the best means of preventing it, but we would resort to war in case an unavoidable dispute had been referred to the League or World Court without successful settlement." This shows that the vast majority of the young men and women present, though pacifist in a desirable sense, are not to be classed with unreflecting "non-resisters." They are eager to prevent war, and stand for the League of Nations and the International Court as the only organizations with any prospect of serving the purpose, but they would be militant at need and readily fight for their country against unjust aggression from any quarter. They form as healthy-minded a body of young people as could be desired.

YOUNG STRIBBLING.

Young Stribbling has an appropriate name, for it could easily be mistaken for "Young Stripping," and the new boxing star from Georgia is only 17 years old. He must be a husky lad in truth, for the other day he cuffed veteran Dave Rosenberg about a Newark prize-ring in great style and knocked Brooklyn's middleweight laurels all the way down to Georgia, after which the Southern boy was saluted not only as the conqueror of McTigue and Rosenberg but as the future possible vanquisher of Dempsey himself. Georgia, once famed for its statesmen, its generals and its journalists, and later renowned for its star of the diamond, Ty Cobb, is now the proud possessor of a boy whose fists are his fortune.

Mothers are not supposed to favor prize rings even when their sons are only spectators, but "Ma" Stribbling—as the accounts name her—always attends the bouts in which Young is a principal, looking on without shrinking and with proud and enduring confidence. The reporters say that she kisses her boy before he climbs into the ring and that her presence is an inspiration to him. "You were all right, darlin', all the time," was her fond greeting when he came out of the ring a victor at Newark. "I can't understand why women think boxing is dangerous," she is quoted. For her part she thinks football far more so. "They can't injure each other seriously. A knockout is temporary. Women think boxing is terrible. What's a little blood? This is not unlike the spirit of the Lacedaemonian mother who bade her son return from war with his shield or dead upon it. Young Stribbling would seem to inherit a firm will and a Spartan soul as well as the strength and the fists that make for victory.

Gloves Long in Use.

Gloves were worn by the Egyptians as early as the eighteenth dynasty, but there seems to be no evidence that women wore them at all. A pair of 16th-century length were found in the tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen for his use in the future world.

Foolish Ideas.

 A boiler and a kettle-lid,
 Some plates that Maggie broke and hid;
 A chopping block, a knuckle-bone,
 A phonograph that doesn't phone,
 Some lingerie that lingered long,
 A mattress with the mat all gone,
 A bustle out of grandma's trunk,
 A rat-trap and some other junk;
 A demijohn of faint bouquet,

 The sticks and tail of Johnny's kite,
 A table lamp I dropped one night;
 Tomato cans of Old Lang Syne,
 A hundred feet of washing line;
 One pair of pants (demobilized),
 One garden hose (derubberized);
 Gas fittings from a former age,
 One rocker, one canary cage,
 A niblick and a baseball bat,
 A bedstead and a broken slat;
 The box in which the rabbit died,
 The bike that mother used to ride;
 Of many things a sundry crop—
 All but the car—that's in the shop.

How long do you think it will be before a woman who murders her husband will stand the same chance of punishment a man does when he murders his wife? This column guesses three or four hundred and eighty-seven years.

Radio Brings College Study to Students at Home

Actual college study has been started in Oregon by the state university. Certificates are issued to those who listen to a series of twelve lectures. Questions regarding the course are answered by mail. While lectures by professors are a popular feature of the programs of most of the large broadcasting stations, this is said to be the earliest effort to give a real course by wireless.

Bass Viol so Large Player Stands on Pedestal

Measuring 14 feet from tip to base, a bass viol has been made by a western man, who claims it is the largest in the world. In order to play it, the musician must stand on a pedestal five feet high. The same maker constructed another of the big fiddles which measured 10 feet. Formerly the largest known instrument of this kind, 11 feet, 7 inches tall, was located in New York. It required two players, one to stop the strings and the other to handle the bow.

EVEN MAGAZINE EDITORS DON'T ALL LIVE IN NEW YORK!

Martha Van Rensselaer was recently named as one of the twelve greatest American women. Born of parents who desired above all things to educate their children well, Miss Van Rensselaer became a teacher almost without conscious choice. As county school commissioner she added an interest in the problems of rural women. A job had become a career.

In 1900 she was appointed by Cornell university for development of extension work with rural women. A department of home economics in the New York State College of Agriculture at Cornell with Miss Van Rensselaer in charge followed. The department has become a "professional school," a small college in itself.

Mr. Hoover appointed Miss Van Rensselaer chief of the home conservation division of the United States food administration. The American Home Economics association made her its president. A woman's magazine sought her out to be "home-making editor."

With all personality boiled out in the telling, that is the story of one woman who had only a school teacher's position in an "up-state" town as a starting point.

What made Miss Van Rensselaer a woman to be listed in "Who's Who?" In what way has she differed from thousands of teachers who, in their own embittered phrase, "Never got anywhere?"

Isn't it fairly easy to read between the lines? Martha Van Rensselaer, the girl, used to the full the gift her family had to convey. They loved education. Their daughter made education her life work.

She developed early the ability to manage people. Women county school commissioners were not so common in Atlantic coast states a quarter of a century ago but that office-holding is significant.

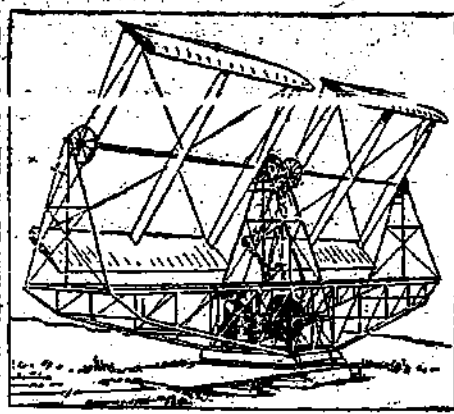

She was intellectually alert. Not many people were seeing the differences between life in city and country as problems that demanded help from public schools. Still fewer had a practical program. Martha Van Rensselaer evolved both.

She was feminine. She directed—once, may easily imagine—all her fine woman instincts, not into antagonism to men, as so many intellectual women have done, but into a constructive service for other women and girls.

"I would develop more opportunities for women outside the cities," she writes. "There is much work undone and many women overtaxed in farm life because home equipment, social life and remuneration are not enough to hold the average girl at the seat of

Airplane With Moving Wings to Rise From Housetop

Intended for rising out of narrowly limited spaces or from the roofs of ordinary buildings, an airplane which has wings that resemble paddle wheels is being built by an inventor. These, with forward motion, will carry the machine up, down, ahead, or backward, according to the designer, who expects his craft to even stand still in mid-air without changing the direction of the wings' rotation. It gets its power from an airplane engine, which drives the propeller by means of chains.

Lost Motion

How efficiency of workers is reduced by lost motions is being shown through detailed photographic studies. Observation of bricklayers of ordinary training, who are said to use the same methods that have prevailed for 7,000 years, and of that most ancient of craftsmen, the berry picker, are said to give no indication that the best way to do these tasks is to follow instinct. The layer of brick can be trained to do three times as much work with the same effort, according to the tests. Similarly, the berry picker can increase his harvest fifteenfold, it is said.

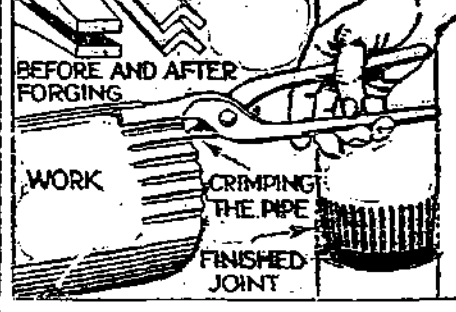

Turned Posts for Homemade Furniture

The appearance of homemade tables and other furniture can be improved considerably if round legs are used instead of square ones, which immediately give the job away, no matter how well done. It is not necessary, in most cases, to go to the trouble of having legs made especially for this purpose, or to ransack the market for them, as ordinary stair balusters, which are available in a variety of sizes and forms can be procured from any dealer in lumber and millwork. These balusters make as neat table, pedestal, and chair legs as can be desired and cost very little.

Crimping Tool for Pipe

Anyone who has attempted to join two lengths of galvanized-iron pipe, when the end of one length is not crimped, will appreciate the homemade crimping tool shown in the illustration. A pair of ordinary long-handled flat-nosed pliers was heated and the jaws forged to a V-shape.

as shown in the detail. In use the crimp is simply pressed over the metal around the end of the pipe, which reduces the diameter, so that it can be pushed into the end of the other length of pipe.

Gas Formed in Grain Cargo Raises Sunken Ship

Gas, generated by saturation of grain by water, recently raised a ship that had lain deck downward on the bottom of the Mediterranean Sea since 1916, when it struck a floating mine. As the vessel reached the surface, keel upward, it turned over and the gas, rushing through openings in the deck, exploded. Grain was blown high into the air and scattered over the sea, while the boat filled with water and sank again.

The average annual gasoline consumption for each passenger automobile in the United States is estimated at 260 gallons.

DISTURB MEETING; HEAVILY FINED

Ida May, Landy Thomas, Henry Williams, and George Perkins, all colored, were haled before Mayor H. T. Billick of Monongahela charged with intruding on church services at the Church of God in East Main street in that city.

Miss May resides near the church, and it is said that, with her male companions, she attempted to disrupt the services of the sanctuary. A complaint was made to the police department of the city, and the arrest of Miss May and her companions followed.

At the hearing Miss May was fined $25 and costs, as instigator of the action, and her three companions $15 and costs each, which they severally and conjointly paid, but not without severe reprimand on the part of the mayor.

WAR MINISTER IS SAID ARRESTED

Paris, Jan. 16.—(United Press)—A special dispatch, published here today, but unconfirmed by the United Press, says it is reported in the Russian capital that Leon Trotsky, soviet war minister has been arrested.

The Cheka, or government secret police, are said to have charged Trotsky with conspiracy against the soviet government, rebellion against the Communist committee, and disloyalty to the Third International.

Trotsky, the dispatch says, was about to leave on his vacation when the arrest was ordered.

In Society's Realm

The Sunday school class taught by Miss Della Jacobs of the First Baptist church, was entertained last night at the home of Miss Margaretta Wilson of 731 McKean avenue. The monthly business session was the opening feature and plans were made for the future interests of the church, after which luncheon was served.

The members of the Knights of Columbus, No. 956, entertained their mothers, wives and sweethearts in the lyceum of the church last evening and a most enjoyable time was spent in dancing, bowling and various other forms of entertainment. The Roth orchestra of Ellsworth furnished the music. There were approximately 150 members and guests present. Luncheon was served at the conclusion of the festivities. E. J. Protin, chairman, was in charge of the affair.

Miss Margaret McMahan of Fallowfield avenue entertained the members of the Arachne Circle at her home last evening with 14 members present. During the business meeting a report of the Bake sale which took place the latter part of December, was heard. A social hour followed and an excellent luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Grace Anderson. The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Alice Craig of Shady avenue, Tuesday, January 29.

A group of friends, 25 in number, accorded Mrs. Howard Riggle, formerly Miss Ruth Keys, a miscellaneous shower last evening at her home in 429 Shady avenue and presented her with many beautiful and useful gifts. The chief features of entertainment were games, dancing and music, followed by the serving of a dainty luncheon by Mrs. Samuel Riggle, Mrs. P. L. Keys, and daughter Edith. The out-of-town guests present were from Monessen, and everyone spent a very enjoyable evening.

They were as follows: Mrs. Mary Leider, re-elected as president; Mrs. Nicholas Yost, vice president; Mrs. Michael A. Carroll, treasurer; and Mrs. Henry Wagner re-elected as secretary. MAILED AT 1,000 A DAY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 16.—Certificates of membership in the Harding Memorial Association are being mailed at the rate of a thousand a day from the headquarters of the organization here. Each contributor of one dollar or more to the Harding Memorial fund becomes eligible for associate membership and receives one of the handsomely engraved certificates.

As fast as the subscriptions are reported to headquarters a receipt is issued and a certificate filled out and mailed to the contributor. As yet, only scattered reports have been received and when cities and states begin sending in their final reports the workers here expect to be flooded. A careful record is being kept, however, and the certificates will be delivered as rapidly as the clerical staff can make them out.

The engraved portrait of President Harding which appears on the certificates is from Mrs. Harding's favorite photograph of the late executive. Under it is a fac-simile signature of Mr. Harding. The fac-simile signature of President Coolidge, honorary president of the Memorial Association, also appears.

At alternate corners of the border of the certificate appear branches of the oak and olive, signifying Mr. Harding's strength of character, his qualities of a peacemaker and his kindly, upright disposition. The band reads in the border are in recognition of the effective way in which President Harding brought about a more perfect spirit of national unity.

The words, "Friend, Philosopher, Statesman," which appear at the bottom of the certificate were chosen by the executive committee of the Association as being a simple and adequate summary of the many tributes which have been paid to the late President.

A paper company donated the stock on which the certificates are printed and the engraving itself was also contributed.

J. W. Berryman & Son

"NO FOOTBALL FOR MY BOY, TOO DANGEROUS"
"Pa" and "Ma" Striking, of Macon, Ga., are seen wishing luck to their son, "Young" Striking, high school student and professional boxer, just before his bout at the First Regiment Armory, Newark, N. J., recently, when the husky youngster won the popular and newspaper verdict by a wide margin in his 12 round, no-decision bout with Dave Rosenberg, the rugged veteran Brooklyn middleweight. He is 19 years old. "Pa" and "Baby," "Young's" 16-year-old brother, were seconds; and "Ma," who trains her son and boxes him all over the ring, sat quietly at the ringside. She feels "no pity," she says, because "they can't injure each other seriously"—but "no football for my boy, it's too dangerous." She fails to understand why women should shudder at a boxing bout, and then go to football games, where "players kick each other with their shoes and get internal injuries."

SCENE AT LUXOR

MEN SECONDARY TO A WOMAN EXPLORER

Extraordinary young lady who has a mostly dirt, Miss Forbes says. This ex-speaking acquaintance with most of Europe's famous men, who have been the toast of Kings and the confidant of lonely Arab monarchs, consented to tell whom she considers the six greatest men of her experience. She did so, with a characteristic, personal epigram about each.

"My heroes?"

"General Lyantel first; the man who did more for Morocco than anyone. When he fell ill and European physicians said he could not recover, the Moslems asked if they might pray for him at their mosque, something that has never been done for an infidel in history. They did, and he was cured, and the first thing he did was to go to a Catholic church."

This was Rosita's first.

"Gabriele d'Annunzio. Once at a dinner in Paris, he talked to me steadily for an hour and a quarter. Suddenly he rose. 'Madame,' he said, in the best d'Annunzio manner, 'you must pardon me. I owe myself to the other ladies.'

"Emir Idrissi, lonely prince of Sabya, a veiled prophet whom none might look upon. He talked to me for six hours at midnight in the 'inky blackness of his home. Every hour tinkling teacups, redolent with different spices, were pushed towards us by unseen hands. I never saw him, but he was the wisest of men.

"King Feisal. On a balcony at Damascus, amid the scent of orange blossoms, he told me of his hopes for Arabia. 'And what do you think of European statesmen?' I asked this Arab monarch. 'Like futurist paintings,' he replied immediately, 'they are better at a distance.'

"Robert Horne. Self-made man of the Conservative government in England. Once he told me why he had never married. 'I talk so loudly,' he explained, 'I never have been able to find a place sufficiently private in which to propose.'

Miss Forbes uncurled from among the cushions on her divan and nearly forgot the sixth wonder of the masculine world.

"O yes, of course my husband."

He is Arthur McGrath, of the British war office.

"He must be in, because he overcame all my prejudices against love and marriage."

"He's six feet tall," she added.
